

View the complete version: I have a new computer on the way..

Posted by: chillitt
Date: 30-11-2009 10:47:21

So stand by for all sorts of stupid questions, followed by an absence.... :rolleyes: First question, Can I copy firefox over on to the new one with the bookmarks intact? Also, how do I move My pictures over? Last one for now, Why is it important that the new one has 7 windows?

Posted by: MudSurfer
Date: 30-11-2009 10:51:55

You should be able to copy the folder onto a usb stick or similar, and I think that Firefox stores all your bookmarks/favourites in a folder, so you shouldn't lose anything.....need a hand?

Posted by: chillitt
Date: 30-11-2009 10:58:55

 MudSurfer wrote:

You should be able to copy the folder onto a usb stick or similar, and I think that Firefox stores all your bookmarks/favourites in a folder, so you shouldn't lose anything.....need a hand?

...Probably... ;) I'll have a go though... Almost wish I hadn't throw the spare monitor out now, that might have been handy....

If I plug my ipod into the new one, will it copy the files to the comp, or wipe the ipod?

Posted by: MudSurfer
Date: 30-11-2009 11:02:22

Hmmmm - good one - you should (I stress should) be able to see the ipod as a disk, rather than it trying to do anything else, just don't install iTunes on the new PC just yet, otherwise it may try to wipe it - just make sure that you copy the music folder over too....

Posted by: Matt
Date: 30-11-2009 13:37:45

The export tool available from M$'s site should allow you to transfer all of your setting, documents etc across Charlie.

Posted by: chillitt
Date: 30-11-2009 15:17:27

 Matt wrote:

The export tool available from M$'s site should allow you to transfer all of your setting, documents etc across Charlie.

Oh that sounds handy... I'm off for a look...

Posted by: Matt
Date: 30-11-2009 15:19:03

I'm not sure if this is the correct one or not:

<http://windows.microsoft.com/en-us/windows7/products/features>

Posted by: chillitt
Date: 30-11-2009 15:28:43

Just found the same thing! That sounds quite straightforward, so far.... I was anticipating all sorts of bother with different O/S, Hard drives, and things like that there.. Cheers that man. :D

Posted by: gwh200
Date: 30-11-2009 16:47:10

Charlie, this new computer . Did you go to shop and actually swap ... Cash.... For it?

Posted by: chillitt
Date: 30-11-2009 17:39:27

 gwh200 wrote:

Charlie, this new computer . Did you go to shop and actually swap ... Cash.... For it?

What, My cash? Good Lord no! I had a little windfall... (that is not the same as dropping your bat, before you ask... :D)

Posted by: gwh200
Date: 30-11-2009 18:38:20

 chillitt wrote:

 gwh200 wrote:

Charlie, this new computer . Did you go to shop and actually swap ... Cash.... For it?

What, My cash? Good Lord no! I had a little windfall... (that is not the same as dropping your bat, before you ask... :D)

Excellent :D

Posted by: Matt
Date: 30-11-2009 18:48:20

 chillitt wrote:

What, My cash? Good Lord no!

Good to hear. It sounded like you were losing your touch for a moment there. :D