Thank feck its rare!

It has the 'rare' 3.0 engine. Yeah, so rare there's two in the carpark outside work here!

That's got to be the worst bumper I've EVER seen! What a steaming pile of shite! And what the hell has he stuck on his gearstick??? :lol: :lol: :lol:

I don't think I've ever agreed with Apache more....

plus he can't be arsed to even cut the ends off teh cable ties on that freakish gear lever, what the hell is the rest of the truck built like?

:D

Rest of the truck, 8/10,
Bumper and gearlever, -1,000,000/10

:puke:

No I think he's right. It looks like it was built in 200AD.

Tony, did you accidentally write 'more' at the end of that sentence?

Shame is, if he'd stopped when he'd bolted on the big wheels and flares...

The stupid bumper, roof lights at the BACK of the roof (what the [Dyslexic swearing] are they lighting up??) and the X Wing Fighter controls on the gearstick just turn it into the type of thing a clown might turn up at a kids party in! (I wonder if the doors fall off when he arrives?)

Sometimes, less is more.

Some people don,t know when to stop, he probably thinks it looks the dogs.

Think he will be disappointed when it does'nt sell., mind you they say there's one born every minute so no doubt it will sell.

I've looked at that gearstick ten times now and I still don't understand. I know it's shit, but could someone please explain what it's even supposed to be? It just looks like weird random plastic to me. Does anyone know what it's supposed to be?

Its got to be the controls for his :tosser: machine . It could only be a total :tosser: who thinks that he has increased the surfs value by adding that pile of crap to it.

firstly,i think he has put the roof lights that far back,so he doesnt blind himself from light being reflected off of the bonnet,so the lights now light up the surrounding area,very clever idea.the gearstick,looks like it belongs in a thalidomides vehicle,but that front bull bar,thats very special. a piece of art work that,,so all in all remove the bullbar,re fit a proper gear stick,put the lights where they are supposed to be.a quick look around underneath to make sure its been put together properly and knock him down a monkey and there you have a perfectly good usable truck.

You wouldn't be able to knock down a monkey with that. It would go straight underneath.

My roof lights are about 18" back from the screen. No reflection from the bonnet. Does light up the snorkel head nicely though! :)

So is mine.

It is useful to light up the area round the truck, really. Ever driven the strata florida granite bombhole in the dark? :D

Is his reply to the question there new?

"Hi Tony."

Well, thanks! That's answered everything. And Tony, was that you?
