Just finished servicing, and then ripping the T/Case out of mckirdy-services 3rd Gen, ready for its new one he's bring up at 8am tomorrow... errr, this morning!!

:D

Better get some sleep.....

lol, night all....

And it's still not finished :-)

Although that's probably because I keep adding jobs to do :-). Thanks for all your hard work Tony it's really appreciated.

I left my chainsaw etc! Bugger. So decided to go out for a ride on the bike as not been out in ages. I'm currently broken down on the m20 junction 9 :-)

I think its a battery issue as nit been used in a while and did not start straight away .

I'm currently wlti g for rac bloke :-)

Oh well

You actually on the hard shoulder or off at the junction? Don't envy you if you're still on the shoulder.

Im on the roundabout, another biker gave me a hand to push the bike onto the footpath behind the traffic cones (road works). So I'm as safe as can be and it's not too cold :-)

I'm down as a priority with the rac so they said within 2 hours! IDE hate not to be a priority got back in the end, rac only took 50 mins. The battery was shot, only replaced it less than two months ago under warranty as the other one packed up.

I cant see me getting two duff batteries so think someting up with bike. the bike is only a 58 plate 2009 honda cbf 1000 gt so should be fine !

got 13v out of alternator not checked ampage, will phone honda on monday.
