:D

I haven't been online much lately as I've been a bit busy BUT I noticed that a thread over the road has been moved but I don't have access to it's new location. The title was "Shortest period of surf ownership?" and it was posted by Animal Mother - my guess is that it broke a few rules but can somebody tell us what the thread was about ?

:whistle:

I moved it temporally to the mods section for Koi's opinion.

I think he was very well looked after by the dealer, I don't know many people who have bought a duff truck and been able to unreservedly return it with very little hassle. Most will need lots of moaning at or only contribute 1/2 the costs.

It was wrong to 'name and shame' the dealer on the assumption he was going to do something underhand, you can't just post stuff like that.

Thats sort of stuff is what gets forums in legal trouble with businesses.

I'd be happy to see the trucks reg left in the post, but not the rest.

Something ain't right. I just read the post (complete with dealer details and reg etc) in the mods section next door. And I am pretty sure I haven't been given an administrator's password.

You got a warrent? Impressive contacts.

:lol: :lol: :lol:

I didn't set the board permissions, I assumed the others knew what they where doing.
