Sorry been away in Greece working, and you thought Birmingham was a dump, Athens is very run down, taxi drivers are something else

:lol:

INCORRECT as usual !

We've been idling in Tenerife and just got back this evening - collecting the van from the dealer first thing tomorrow after they've hopefully sorted out a couple of warranty jobs and then we're going straight up to Daventry cos herself wants to go to a dog show ...

:devil:

:lol:

Guilty as charged !

Damned dealer had only done half the work so they'll be collecting the van at some point so they can finish it all but apart from that we had a good time albeit rather hectic. It seemed a bit more laid back than the other shows we've been to and the dogs were quite loud at times :)

The downside is that herself spoke to quite a few breeders ... As a consequence while we're away next week we'll be taking a trip over towards Burton on Trent to meet half a dozen 4 week old puppies :mad:

Bernese Mountain Dog - it'll be a bitch as they're allegedly less willful ...

Something nice and small that won't need much food etc, is the dog a grandchild substitute?

Run Bob, run. :D My lot have been nagging about another dog for months. I thought my response was quite easy to understand, i.e: No. :D The sneaky feckers bought this and brought it home whilst I wasn't here, knowing full well that I won't turn any animal away once it's here.

The looks are deceiving, btw. It's a devil hound. :D

Poor public ...

:whistle:
